

CARRYING THE WEIGHT, LEADING THE CHANGE

KEY FINDINGS

In partnership with UMass Boston's Center for Women in Politics & Public Policy and research consultant Jessica Martin, Boston Women's Fund has conducted intensive research about BIPOC women grassroots leaders, their organizations, and their communities in Greater Boston to better understand the landscape, their needs, and how to mobilize support.

NONPROFITS SERVING
WOMEN & GIRLS
3.3%

NONPROFITS SERVING
WOMEN & GIRLS OF COLOR
0.2%

NONPROFIT REVENUE TO
WOMEN & GIRLS
1%

NONPROFIT REVENUE TO
WOMEN & GIRLS OF COLOR
<0.05%

ORGANIZATIONS LED BY AND FOR WOMEN AND GIRLS OF COLOR
OPERATE WITH THE SMALLEST AVERAGE REVENUE.

60% OF TOTAL REVENUE TO WOMEN & GIRLS GOES TO JUST
5 ORGANIZATIONS
↑ $1B in revenue

1 in 5
NONPROFIT LEADERS
ARE BIPOC WOMEN

60%
BIPOC WOMEN LEADERS
ARE BLACK OR LATINA

WHITE MEN AND BIPOC WOMEN EACH ACCOUNT
FOR 18% OF ALL NONPROFIT LEADERS.

YET, ORGANIZATIONS LED BY WHITE MEN
ACCOUNT FOR NEARLY 50% OF REVENUE,
WHEREAS ORGANIZATIONS LED BY BIPOC
WOMEN ACCOUNT FOR JUST 11% OF REVENUE.

All included statistics are specific to the Greater Boston area (Essex, Middlesex, Norfolk, Plymouth, and Suffolk counties).*

CONCENTRATED RESOURCES, UNMET NEEDS

BIPOC women grassroots leaders carry a triple burden.

They live the daily realities of racial and gender inequity, lead work to address those inequities at both tactical and systemic levels, and do so with far fewer resources than their peers to build equity, sustain, mindfully grow their organizations, and preserve their own well-being. Limited access to resources, systemic racism, and unrealistic philanthropic expectations create a cycle of overwork and burnout that is not individual but structural.

INSTITUTIONAL GAPS & CONSEQUENCES

Entire populations are missing or undercounted.

Folks such as transgender and undocumented women remain uncared and overlooked in institutions that rely on accurate reporting to address their needs.

Individual interventions alone are not enough.

While BIPOC women grassroots leaders have developed personal and organizational strategies to combat burnout and navigate inequitable philanthropic systems, structural change is needed to sustain BOTH leaders and their organizations.

REPORT CONTRIBUTORS

- Jessica Martin, Research Consultant
- Laurie Nsiah-Jefferson, PhD, MPH, MA, UMass Boston's CWPPP
- Christa Kelleher, PhD, UMass Boston's CWPPP
- Adanna C. Kalejaye, Esq., LL.M, MPP, UMass Boston's CWPPP
- Amrith Fernandes Prabhu, MPP, MS, UMass Boston's CWPPP
- Natanja Craig Oquendo, BWF
- Aisha Woodruff, BWF
- Sneha Gantla, BWF

EVENT PANELISTS

- Natanja Craig Oquendo, CEO, BWF
- Dr. Laurie Nsiah-Jefferson, Director, UMass Boston's CWPPP
- Aba Taylor, President & CEO, YW Boston
- Diana Hwang, Founder & Executive Director, Asian American Women's Political Initiative

GIVE NOW

Join us.
Bridge the gap.
Fund the Future.

FOLLOW OUR WORK

@bostonwomensfund